Pre-reading and viewing assignments for the MSUCOM SCS Obstetrical Emergencies Lab:

Thank you for participating in the MSUCOM SCS Obstetrical Emergencies Lab! To provide efficient and effective instruction and, honestly, to shorten the time you are in the lab by about two and a half hours, the course designers eliminated the lecture portion of the lab and instead are providing you with resources to view and read prior to attending. The Lab will consist only of skills stations.

Each skill station will consist of intense, concentrated application of skills, with the expectation that you arrive with the requisite knowledge to apply. You will be expected to perform, via simulation, neonatal resuscitation, peri-mortem c-sections, difficult vaginal deliveries upon arrival to the Lab. The knowledge and concepts will not be provided during the skills stations.

Prior to arriving to the lab, please view and read the below assignments and sign the attestation. Bring with you and turn in the signed attestation when you arrive on the day of the Lab. The assignments should take about two and a half hours to complete.

- View Dr. Jordan video on delivery complications (44 minutes).
- View the following 2 videos on human trafficking:

Attestation:
I attest, as a honorable and noble person who would never lie about reading something I didn’t or would show up to a skills lab unprepared, do hereby attest that I viewed and read all of the above assignments and am accountable for my own education and am going to arrive with the requisite knowledge to practice the skills, thereby transferring knowledge into motor skills cementing them into my long term memory so I am capable of providing expert emergency medical patient care for the entirety of my career. And if I show up not having viewed and read the assignments I am none of those cool things.
