Speaker Bio~ David A. Farcy, MD FAAEM FACEP FCCM

President-Elect, American Academy of Emergency Medicine (AAEM)

Dr. Farcy is Chairman of the Department of Emergency Medicine and Medical Director of the Surgical Intensivists at Mount Sinai Medical Center in Miami Beach, FL. Dr. Farcy's interest in medicine began as a medic in the U.S. Air Force and drove him to pursue a career in emergency medicine and critical care. After graduating from Texas Tech University, Dr. Farcy attended Universidad Autonoma de Guadalajara where he obtained his medical degree and completed his emergency medicine residency at Maimonides Medical Center in Brooklyn, NY. Finding a love also for critical care, Dr. Farcy also participated in an emergency medicine/ critical care fellowship at R. Adams Cowley Shock Trauma Center in Baltimore, MD.

Once employed by Mt. Sinai Medical Center, Dr. Farcy became immediately active in the Florida Chapter Division of AAEM, eventually serving on the FLAAEM board and is currently immediate past president. Working in an academic setting at Mt. Sinai Medical Center, it is his passion to educate and be a voice to constantly improve patient care.

Outside of working clinically, Dr. Farcy prides himself on the extracurricular time he gives to his many lectures, posters, and publications to further educate his fellow physicians.
