Meet ACGME CLER Objectives and Common Program Requirements with this exciting hands-on workshop! New York Times Best-Selling Author and leading national expert in this field, David Maxfield, PhD, will lead this session by sharing research-based:

- Factors that contribute to a culture of silence that impacts patient outcomes.
- Practical strategies you can implement to create a supportive culture resulting in better patient outcomes and higher employee morale.

Participants will work through real-life scenarios like providing feedback to residents on unprofessional behavior, confronting a difficult colleague, speaking up to prevent healthcare errors, and addressing sexist behavior in the hospital.

This workshop is invaluable for institutions who strive to create a positive clinical learning environment for the entire health care team.
